MORE THAN JUST A NAME

Our quirky corner of Birmingham has a history of more than 250 years with over 200 listed buildings today, including St. Paul's Church which sits on top of the last Georgian square in Birmingham. You can learn more about our heritage by visiting any of the four museums we have here—see our website for more details.

While we still boast the highest concentration of independent jewellers in the UK, the Jewellery Quarter today is more than just our namesake. Our streets are teeming with independent retailers from rare whisky and wine merchants to vintage gifts and homeware all in a welcoming community just a stone's throw from the city centre. When you want a break from your shopping you can drop by any one of our independent coffee shops, delis and restaurants or stop for a refreshing drink at one of our many pubs and bars—it's no wonder we are regularly featured in Birmingham's top ten lists!

WHO IS THE JQBD?

The Jewellery Quarter Business Improvement District is a community interest company funded by local businesses. Our dedicated team are committed to delivering projects and events which raise the profile of the Jewellery Quarter making it the place to live, learn, work and visit.

Please visit our online directory www.jewelleryquarter.net/directory for a comprehensive list of businesses in the Jewellery Quarter. If you are a businesses seeking to get on our directory, or require visitor information please email info@jqdt.org
